Why I want to be a part of the NUS Students' Computing Club Management Committee:

~~Of~~ of all the things I can do, I don't really like sports, not very athletic so no sports club for me. I could join some sedentary clubs but that will be in my own free time. ~~Then~~ I am a very technical person, had participated and initiated many electronics/make projects also joined various business and non business competition. I like to create various random initiatives that seems to be "Demanded" by people. I have entrepreneurial & business aspirations currently serving as secretary of a company. I.E. the admin guy, giving random ideas. By serving as Marketing Director, I have plans to improve how things are done now. Expand the revenue streams by introducing new ways of selling & marketing. ~~Also~~ I can ~~just~~ test certain methods and ideas I have with this role. I like to search and optimise things like frantically searching for the best possible value product for the least price. By being marketing director, I can communicate with external parties, & I can learn how these kinds of systems work. And possibly bring it home to apply to my ~~part~~ own business work.

TL; DR.

- I secretly like to help and improve things for others.
- I can learn how to do these external relations marketing things.
- I like project management.
- I like productivity.
